I am opposed to using power lines for tranmission of data at high speed because of the concern of interference to the amateur radio frequencies. I currently use power line interface within my home for automation but block it's transmission to the "outside" community.